

ONLY DECO LOVE

*I woke up today in Zurich in my room at the Marktgasse Hotel , the most beautiful morning light was softly filling the room. Before I go out and explore the city, and after having breakfast downstairs at the hotels cafe/brunch shop (it is open for locals as well during the day), I made myself comfortable at my office desk in my room to finish up some work. Usually I rather work at the lobby of hotels (with my trusty macbook, my phone and my notebook from Paper Collective's collaboration with Sorensen Leather ) , and although Marktgasse Hotel lobby is truly beautiful, I couldn't resist sitting on the Kobenhavns Mobelsnedkeri desk and chair, while enjoying the beautiful view of the old town. One of the details that I loved, are the Kinto teapot (latest brand crush) and cup that can be found in the lobby where there is a small kitchen that guests can make their own coffee and tea during the day, I chose to bring mine in my room since I would be working for a few hours. I will be sharing more photos of the hotel and its beautiful details soon, but for now, I need to start exploring while the sun is up!
